Dear Prime Minister

I am writing to express my shame at the inhumane treatment of the over 1000 asylum seekers who are living in onshore detention centres throughout Australia without knowing if or when they will be free.

Recent inspections of onshore facilities have revealed that they have become prison-like, with practices designed to degrade, isolate and humiliate, such as lack of privacy in toilets and showers, arbitrary transfers, unnecessary use of handcuffs, harsh restrictions on visitors, and increased security and surveillance. We can and must do better. Sincerely,

Prime Minister
